Bio

Viktorija Pilatovic is a Lithuanian-born jazz vocalist, composer, and lyricist whose music blends poetic storytelling with sophisticated harmonies, virtuosity, and emotional depth. She stands out as one of today's most original jazz voices.

"I was pleasantly surprised to discover the deep artistry of Viktorija Pilatovic - her music will not disappoint." — Terri Lyne Carrington (Grammy-winning jazz drummer, composer, and educator.)

"I love the passion of her voice and how it colors her instrument with subtlety and nuance."

— Dianne Reeves (Acclaimed jazz singer, five-time Grammy winner.)

With four albums of original music — Skybridges (2023), The Only Light (2019), Stories (2017), and Nica's Blues (2013) — her work has been featured by NPR Live Sessions, DownBeat, RTVE, and JazzinEurope. Saxophonist Greg Osby describes her as "among the best of the new wave of contemporary singer/songwriters."

Viktorija has collaborated with international icons, including five-time Grammy-winning producer Michael League (Snarky Puppy), Banda Magda, Petros Klampanis (co-producer of Skybridges), Jorge Pardo, Antonio Serrano, and Perico Sambeat. She also appears alongside Sílvia Pérez Cruz on Sambeat's Voces and is featured on Osby's Minimalism.

Viktorija has performed in 20+ countries and major festivals such as the Madrid Jazz Festival, Supernova Jazz Blast, Vilnius Mama Jazz, Sopot Jazz, and Grenoble Metropole Jazz Festival, among others. She is a faculty member at Berklee College of Music (Valencia) and Musikene (San Sebastian). Currently, she is touring with her quartet — Albert Palau (piano), Miquel Alvarez (double bass), and Quique Ramírez (drums) — presenting music from her new fifth album, Seven Letters.

New Album: Seven Letters

Internationally acclaimed jazz vocalist and composer Viktorija Pilatovic announces the release of her fifth album, Seven Letters — a deeply personal collection of musical letters written to the world.

“Whenever I write, I’m speaking to someone,” says Pilatovic. “Sometimes it’s myself, sometimes a loved one, a memory, even a fleeting thought. These dialogues are intimate, yet universal — because we all speak to something or someone in our inner worlds every day.”

Each of the seven letters unfolds through music first, with lyrics crystallizing as reflections around the sound. The seventh letter, On the Edge of Silence — written to musicians and music lovers — has already received recognition as part of Terri Lyne Carrington’s landmark book New Standards: 101 Lead Sheets by Women Composers (Volume 2).

With liner notes by Ganavya in the limited CD and vinyl editions, Seven Letters offers listeners an immersive journey into Pilatovic’s compositional and emotional universe. The album features an exceptional lineup of collaborators:

- Perico Sambeat — on a ballad dedicated to Pilatovic’s mother
- Petros Klampanis — double bassist and co-producer
- Albert Palau — long-time pianist and collaborator
- Quique Ramirez — on drums

Drawing from contemporary jazz, Brazilian, Mediterranean, and classical influences, Pilatovic describes her music as “instrumental jazz with lyrics” — where voice and instruments share equal weight in telling the story.

Beyond its sound, Seven Letters embodies a strong visual identity: Pilatovic’s handwritten lyrics, cover art by Pepa Catalá Fombuena, and three evocative videos by Isaac Martin. Together, these elements transform the project into more than just an album — a personal archive, a shared diary, and an invitation to listen closely.

Press

"An artist who continues to move with purpose and grace." - Petros Klampanis

"Viktorija Pilatovic is the real deal! She is a triple threat as a vocalist, composer, and professor at the prestigious Berklee College of Music, Valencia." - Terri Lyne Carrington

"Viktorija Pilatovic ranks among the best of the new wave of contemporary singer/songwriter/performers. Her music is exceptionally personal that is equal parts colorful and yet, full of innocence. With this project, Viktorija offers her listeners a heightened sense of musicality and overwhelming joy, all wonderfully packaged within a series of beautifully framed soundscapes." - Greg Osby

"You could easily fit 25 Lithuanias in the space between her birth country and New York, but Viktorija chose to devote herself to what we often call jazz a long time ago, and she hasn't looked away from that choice since."
- Ganavya

"Very seldom does one come across the extreme talent, brains and drive to compose, arrange and perform, as I have witnessed in the voice and musical prowess of jazz vocalist Viktorija Pilatovic."
- J.D. Walter

"The Only Light (Inner Circle Music INCM085, 49:00 +++) by Lithuanian singer, Viktorija Pilatovic, an educator at Berklee's Valencia campus, is truly international in intention and flavor. Pilatovic's vision comes through on her angular compositions and arrangements juxtaposed with a fluid and reaching vocal style."
- Downbeat Magazine, oct 2019, p80

"Viktorija es uno de los músicos con más talento que he conocido en los últimos años, pienso que está llamada a escribir importantes páginas en la historia de esta música." - Perico Sambeat

"Not only does she sing well, but she composes divinely..." (broadcast commentary introducing tracks from 'The Only Light'.) - RTVE Radio 3 – Discópolis (Nov 30, 2019, Radio program)
